An Extraordinary Will Case

One of the most remarkable cases on record, destined to rank high among the Causes Celebres, is now the talk of Boston The evidence, taken before examiners some months since, but only just published, fills a large volume of a thousand pages The amount involved exceeds a million dollars The argument in the case—before the United States Circuit Court, Justice Clifford presiding—commenced last Friday. It is a suit in equity, brought by Hetty H Robinson against Thomas Mandell and others Miss Robinson (now Mrs. Green) was, previous to her marriage, one of the richest, if not the richest, spinster in the United States, her property, which she inherited from her father, was commonly reputed to be worth $5,000 000 It appears that her aunt, Miss Sylvia Ann Howland, who died in 1865, left a will bearing date September, 1864, and a codicil executed in 1861 By this will and codicil, Miss Howland disposed of about $700,000 in private legacies, the largest, of $200,000, to Thomas Mandell, her lawyer, we believe $115,000 to her physician, Dr Gradon, and from $4,000 to $15,000 to each person in her employment She left also, $340,000 for public and charitable purposes, of which the city of New Bedford, where she resided, was to receive $320,000. The residue of her estate amounting, it is said, to about a million dollars, was to be placed in trust, the income to be paid to Miss Robinson during her life; the principal on her decease, to go to some of the testator's relatives Miss Robinson contests her aunt's will. This is, in itself, remarkable enough, seeing that the young lady, already possessor of millions, is entitled, under it, to an annuity that would add some $60,000 or 70,000 to her annual income What she contends for is the whole of her aunt's estate, in fee, supposed to be worth about two millions

The ground upon which she contests the above will and codicil is noteworthy It seems that Miss Howland had quarreled with her brother in-law, the father of Miss Robinson, and being resolved, if possible, to exclude him from all share, not only of her own property, but of his daughter's also, she proposed, about September, 1860, to her neice, then about twenty three years old, that if she (Miss Robinson) would make a will so that her father should inherit no part of her property, she (Miss Howland) would in return, make a will leaving everything to her niece, the will of each to be deposited with the other, and neither to make any other will without notice to the other, and returning to that other her will Miss Robinson agreed to this, and the wills were executed accordingly. But the subsequent will and codicil made by the aunt in 1863 and 1864 were executed without notice to the niece. Thus arose a question of law, a novel question in the courts of this country, namely, whether a contract for mutual wills if proved, can be enforced as being without consideration and against public policy and good morals.

But the most singular feature in this case still remains to be stated. To the will originally made by Miss Howland in favor of her niece there is an addition, sewed on with fine thread to the first page, not changing any provision of the will, but a sort of protest by the testator against the validity of any subsequent will which she, under undue influence from those around her, might be induced to make. Part of the text is. "I implore the Judge to decide in favor of this will, as nothing could induce me to make a will unfavorable to my niece; but being ill, and afraid, if any of my caretakers insisted on my making a will, to refuse, as they might leave me or be angry. * * I give this will to my niece to show, if absolutely necessary to have it appear against another will found after my death" Miss Robinson testifies, under oath, that she wrote this appendage to the will at the suggestion of her aunt, and that her aunt signed it in duplicate in her presence. The defense to this is nothing less than a charge of forgery. It is denied that the signature to this additional page is genuine, and alleged that it was copied by tracing from a signature (admitted to be genuine) of the testator to the original will to which this appendage is found stitched. This opens up a wide field, in which not only questions of law but of science, and even of art come up On the question of forgery both parties have spent much time and labor. Two skillful photographers have been employed for weeks, and experts have expended months in procuring and comparing, in a great number of cases, numerous signatures by the same person, so as to determine the chances that any one person should write three signatures exactly alike. The testimony is to the effect that Miss Howland's signature to the original and genuine will, and the two signatures to the appended paper, executed in duplicate, are in every letter and line and in the spaces between the three words, Sylvia Ann Howland, so precisely coincident, so identical in fact, that nothing but a deliberate purpose to make them so can explain the phenomenon. Mr Crossman, for the defense, testifies that he has spent nearly five months in examining hundreds of signatures of many well known persons, comparing the coincidence by superimposing one to the other on a glass in front of a window, and also by tracing and superimposing the tracings. He says there was greater similarity in Miss Howland's signatures, forty or fifty of which he compared with each other, than in any other case, and he considers the two signatures to the detached sheets to be genuine. On the other hand Mr Southworth, after similar research, declares that the three signatures coincide with mathematical accuracy, not only letter for letter and space for space, but also that each has the same slant to the base line of each paper, so that the eye sees them parallel His testimony covers fifty pages, and he pronounces the two contested signatures to be forgeries, executed by tracing

But the most curious and interesting testimony of the whole is that of the testimony of Professor Benjamin Pierce of Harvard College, Superintendent of the Coast Survey, and one of the best mathematicians of the age, upon the doctrine of chances He said "He had had large experience relating to the computation of chances, that the mathematical discussion of the subject of the coincidence of signatures have never to his knowledge, been proposed, but that it was not difficult, and a numerical expression applicable to this problem, the correctness of which would be recognised by all the mathematicians in the world, could be readily maintained." Then, having obtained the relative frequency of coincidence by comparing numerous signatures of Miss Howland to bills of sales to vessels, etc,, he concludes that, in her case, "this phenomenon (of coincidence) could occur only once in two thousand six hundred and sixty six millions of millions of millions of times, or 2 666,000 000,000,000,000,000" This number, the Professor remarks, "far transcends human experience. So vast an improbability is practically an impossibility Such evanescent shadows of improbability cannot belong to actual life They are unimaginably less than the least things which the law cares not for." And his conclusion from this data is thus expressed "Under a solemn sense of the responsibility involved in the assertion, I declare that the coincidence which has here occurred must have had its origin in an intention to produce it."

A million of dollars has often been staked on the calculation of chances, but there is not in all probability, another example on record in which the verdict in a law case involving that amount was liable to be determined by the testimony of a learned professor, following out the principles which La Place's great work has so ably set forth and applying the unalterable rules of mathematical science to determine what may seem, to the uninitiated, a purely fortuitous matter, namely, the chances of coincidence, in its action, while writing, of the human hand —New York Tribune.

At the royal palace in Berlin, forty thousand candles are instantaneously lighted by one single match. The mode of proceeding is simple enough, the wicks being previously all connected by a thread spun out of gun cotton, on lighting one end of which all the candles are lighted simultaneously and thus the whole of the seven hundred apartments are are illuminated at once In Russia the same method is employed for lighting up the churches on grand occasions.

HOW TO DISPOSE OF "LO!"—A correspondent of a Chicago newspaper says the quickest way to get rid of the Indians is to establish whisky shops all along the border, and give them all they want to drink.

When this is done they will soon get to fighting among themselves, and scalps in large quantities will hang around loose —S. F. Dramatic Chronicle.

A Shocking Picture

The New York Evening Gazette, the tea table organ of the metropolis and the pet of its social aristocracy, makes a shocking disclosure as to the nastiness of the hotels and restaurants which form so prominent a feature in the great city. It declares that with all their external splendor; all their marble and silver, their lace and tapestry, they are internally filthy. All are alike unclean —St Nicholas, Metropolitan, Fifth Avenue, and restaurants of all grades and degrees. If you enter their kitchens you will find them swarming with rats and roaches. You will see swarms of the roaches crawling over piles of food. You will see cooks grasping a clump of roaches with the same hand that a moment after plunges into a dish which is soon to be called dainty. "See that perspiring negro roll up his sleeves and dive his dirty arm into a jar of pickled tongues, and draw up one with the same hand which was getting together a mass of filth for the soap fat man. There goes a delightful little lamb's tongue! Look around at the disgusting piles of this and eat it if you can Oh, horrible! It were impossible to tell one half the story. Dirt, grease, sweetmeats, roaches—and yonder, in the corner, a huge rat, walking out to a plate of 'dainty morsels' for his evening repast! Say you this be so? We tell you it is so in the kitchen of almost any hotel or restaurant in the city."

The Gazette states that not long ago an old restaurant—and one which had been reputed for nicety—was remodeled for a new business. The discoveries made by taking away the boards and clearing up the refuse were nauseating and horrible. The walls were one dense black mass of roaches. Underneath, overhead, and everywhere they were accumulated in solid masses. The workmen would not touch such filth, and finally dogs were sent in to detach them! It is impossible to describe the filthiness of these places. Five times out of ten some negro's hand has been all over and through the dishes that are passed to you so elegantly. Five times out of ten the wretched cook lets drop the perspiration from his face into the very soup which is brought to you with such charming grace. Five times out of ten the steak which you are served with has made two or three former appearances. Roaches crawl over, and under, and through everything. They have to be shaken off from the rolls before they are carried to the guests.

"In this article," continues the Gazette, "we do not confine our criticisms to second-class saloons and restaurants. We do not mean the Nassau street lunches, where the refuse of the hotels is served up regularly to hungry persons. We mean the most reputed places in all of the town From one end of the city to the other, their kitchens are an abomination and a shame. We say it in all honesty that we do not believe the hotels could keep one half their rooms filled, or save themselves from grievous losses, if they should once give their patrons a look among their cooking arrangements. The dining halls become superb in the proportion that the kitchens become vile. We will not detail the horrors. But we do say that it is filth and uncleanness everywhere Probably the most revolting of all the restaurants that have ever deceived the wealthy of the city with a guise of elegance, was the old Taylor's, corner of Franklin street and Broadway. Here any individual disposed to pay for it could eat his peck of dirt at a single sitting. We speak of it without compunction, as it is now a matter of the past. The most horrible of all existing saloons, we believe to be those down town affairs where gentlemen get their dinners and lunches. We took a look behind the scenes at one of the most famous of these, and saw enough to cure us of any desire for lunch for some time to come. The word horrible will not suffice to describe the terrible things brought to view. Even the servants can hardly exist in the steam and dreadful odor which prevail. The dishes are never fully washed, the knives and forks are seldom cleaned—in fact, it is as bad as anything can be imagined.

Verily, this is a dreadful picture, especially for us poor provincials, who, when we visit the metropolis, have to depend on hotels and restaurants for our daily food. Let us hope that it is somewhat overcharged, or let us believe, at least, that our favorite resort is an exception to the general nastiness, and take our meals with what appetite we may, regardless of rats and oblivious of roaches.

"Self-Made Men."

Men who with scanty early advantages have made their own way to fortune or high position, are entitled to all credit and respect for the energy, perseverance and self denial by which they have attained success. There are many such in the United States, who are among our best and most public spirited citizens. In almost every sphere of life, at the bar, in the pulpit, in the professor's chair, in high offices of trust and responsibility, as well as at the head of great commercial and industrial enterprises, are to be found men who, starting without education or friends, have sturdily fought their own battle in life until the struggle ended in victory. We repeat it, such men are worthy of all honor. And yet it is possible that the disposition to admire "self-made men" may be carried too far, especially when the very faults and deficiencies which are almost inevitable in individuals who have had such an experience as theirs, are cited as virtues and excellencies, and made the theme of unstinted praise. There have been men of this description, nor are such specimens rare in our country, who have succeeded in entirely emancipating, themselves from the prejudices which are the natural result of their experiences. But it is safe to say that the majority of persons who have endured self denial and privations, who lived coarsely, and enjoyed few of the comforts of life until after a long struggle they began to reap the rewards of their exertions—it is safe to say that the majority of such are prone to narrow utilitarianism in their views, an exclusive devotion to purely practical ends and purely material success a contempt for liberal culture and for the graces and ornaments of life, which are very far from being traits to be admired or praised. Their own early endurance of the discipline of poverty caused them to regard such discipline as necessary or beneficial for all, their own success, achieved without help or early advantages, has impressed them with the idea that no help should be extended to the young man setting out in his career, and that education is a hindrance rather than a benefit in the struggle for practical success Because they "earned their first shilling," and are proud of it, and love to talk about it, they are persuaded that it would be well for every boy to do it, because they have succeeded in life," with very little schooling," they have come to despair the higher branches of education, and to speak of "book learning" with utter contempt. Such men are, nevertheless, useful citizens, despite the narrowness of their views. Let us honor them for their good qualities, but avoid the imperfection of their hardness and liberal utilitarianism; for in fact, the snobbishness that reveals itself in the worship of wealth is not a whit more despicable than the grovelling worldliness that accepts the "self made man" as the highest ideal of an American citizen

The Lancaster papers announce that Thaddeus Stevens was lying dangerously ill on Saturday morning. This forenoon a dispatch was received by Miss Davis, the ward of Stevens, residing at No 279 South B street, Capitol Hill, dated Lancaster, 9 A M, of to day, containing the words "Mr Stevens is now dying" Nothing further has been heard since concerning his condition, but there seems to be no grounds for the hope that he will be able to rally, though his vigorous constitution has repeatedly carried him through when apparently at death's door His disease is dropsy on the chest. On Monday last he took a trip to Adams county, Penn, to visit his iron works there, much against the advice of his physicians, and it is probable that he was barely able to reach home before being prostrated with his apparently final illness

About one o'clock to day, as Senator Patterson, the President's son in law, of Tennessee, and General Kyle, of the same State, were conversing together in the office of the Ebbitt House, the former rose from his seat and slapped the latter in the face with his open hand. General Kyle immediately grabbed the Senator by the throat, and ordered him to sit down, and in this position they remained until friends interposed and separated them. Senator Patterson said something about shooting, but in a very little time after the affair a reconciliation was effected, and the two left the hotel amicably.

Shooting Affair at Deer Lodge.

Last evening, at about a quarter to six o'clock, the city was thrown into great excitement on news spreading around that William Miller had been killed by Thomas Chapman. We were soon on the scene of the murder, and from parties who were witnesses to the terrible deed, we gather the following particulars

Miller, who is a butcher at Butte City and other camps in the upper portion of the county, came down on Tuesday last to see about opening a shop at this place, since which time he had been on a spree Chapman came from Butte City yesterday morning, and he too, was under the influence of liquor early in the day. In the afternoon they met at Wilson's saloon on Main street, on very friendly terms, Miller the drunker of the two. Sometime during the day Miller had tried hard to raise a quarrel with Mr. J. B. Cavin, who had done him an injury some time since, and had apologised for it. Miller persisted in having a fight, but Mr. Cavin avoided it and left the house Miller was known as a great talker, and had quite a number of listeners "joshing" him to hear him talk About fifteen minutes before the fatal affair, Chapman, Miller, Cox, the barkeeper, and S Hardenbrook, were sitting beside the stove, Miller got up, while speaking (being a great man to gesticulate) and moved his stool backward, or Chapman, who was sitting behind him done so, and Miller sat down on the floor. As he arose from the floor he struck Chapman on the mouth with his hand, followed him into the corner, where Cox, the barkeeper, interfered and separated them, putting Chapman in the back room and leading Miller to the center of the saloon. Soon afterwards, Chapman passed through the room and Miller wanted to get at him, but was prevented. Chapman was gone some time—ten or fifteen minutes—when he returned and stepped into the door, stating, as near as we could learn, "If you want to fight, I am ready for you," or something to that effect. Miller at once struck Chapman with his left hand and followed it up with his right, Chapman backed out of the saloon on the sidewalk, Miller endeavoring to clinch, when Chapman drew a revolver and fired two shots, one taking effect in the left breast, about one-fourth of an inch above the nipple, and coming out of his back, the other passing through the right fore arm, and entering the abdomen. He lived from seven to ten minutes The above statement we gathered from Mr Cox, and other parties present, who were witnesses to the whole affair.

We also called on Chapman; heard his story He says that sometime ago Miller told him that when he (Miller) struck a man, he meant fight, and he would not rest without giving or getting a whipping. Fearing that Miller would wish to renew the difficulty, (considered Miller far superior in strength, and he himself being a cripple in the left arm,) he went off after the first quarrel, tried to get a pistol, went to the stable of Hardenbrook Bros, and took a revolver from a pair of customers hanging in the office with which to defend himself; went to the saloon, met Miller, who attacked him, striking him twice in the face, and who endeavored to draw a knife or pistol—at any rate making a demonstration as though he were about to do so—when he fired two shots.

We have endeavored to give both sides to this most unfortunate affair, and await the action of the justice's examination for further particulars

Both parties have been known to us for year Thomas Chapman, we never knew to have a difficulty which terminated in a fight. His father, Col. W. W. Chapman, of Portland, Oregon, an eminent lawyer, was at one time Surveyor General of that State.

William Miller was from Idaho City to this place, but was well known as a butcher in California. He was fond of drink, and while drunk was sometimes quite abusive We never knew of but one difficulty in which he participated In the spring of 1865 he met a noted desperado in Idaho City—Tom Wilson—in combat, one using a knife and the other a pistol When separated, both were supposed to be mortally wounded, but recovered. Miller was a brave man, who feared nothing.

Chapman was immediately arrested by Under Sheriff Thomas. His examination was postponed until 1 o'clock, P. M., Saturday.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 22, 1867.

Old Democracy.

The other day we published an extract from a Democratic paper of California, the Butte County Press, asserting that the fundamental truths of Democracy are embodied in the Kentucky Resolutions of 1798, and if the party ever perpetuates its power, it must return to them. We remarked that "this was also Oregon Democracy, the original, genuine article." Whereupon one of the organs of that party in this State declared the expressions quoted from the Press "unauthorized," and called attention to the fact that the Democratic Committee of Butte county had rebuked and condemned the utterances of the Press and threatened that unless the tone of the paper were changed, they would read it, formally, out of the party. All this, let it be observed, for advocating a return to the principles of the Resolutions of '98, which had been the leading doctrines of the party for more than sixty years. But the Press was not to be put down in this way. It knew its action was in accordance with the "time-honored principles," and that it was endorsed by its party, even though the Committee had, through considerations of expediency, temporarily renounced the only distinctive doctrine that ever characterized the party. It therefore hurled defiance at the truckling Committee, declared that the leading men of the party in the State held the opinions it has advocated, published the names of forty-six Democrats of its precinct who approve its course, and promised to furnish any required number of the same sort. The Chairman of the Committee, who was a candidate for office, thereupon backed squarely out of the responsibility, repudiated the action of that body, and sustained the Press. In the same issue of his paper, the editor gave place to a correspondent who said: "Let the party stand true to its time honored tenets and principles. If Democracy is right, then is secession right. If Republicanism is right, then is secession wrong. This is the only issue." The State Convention having inserted the anti-Democratic doctrine in its platform, that the General Government is supreme,—the object being to make votes thereby,—the Press "lifted" it, and substituted the first Kentucky resolution, remarking that every Democrat in the State knew that the rejected resolution "expressed falsehood and dishonored the Democratic party." The Press got decidedly the best of the fight which began in an effort to muzzle it, and still goes on discoursing true "Democracy" as before.

We have given the particulars of this case because they have application in Oregon at this time. A few politicians in the Democratic party are endeavoring to ignore the fundamental principles of "Democracy," and to prevent a reaffirmance of the doctrines which were given to the party by its founder, and which it adhered to till the suppression of the great rebellion. These politicians have not been converted to national views; they have not abandoned their old ideas of absolute State sovereignty; but they want to keep these ideas for the present in the background, deeming this the better way to improve the chances for party success. The mass of the party is not willing to ignore the old principles, embracing as they do the only doctrines which give the party a distinctive character. Hence the general disapproval with which the Herald's articles on this subject are received, and the necessity which is frequently thrown upon that paper of explaining and apologizing for the doubtful quality of its "Democracy."

It should be observed, however, that the Herald does not in terms repudiate the Kentucky Resolutions; it dares not do that. But it devotes itself to the task of explaining that they do not justify secession,—a task as gigantic as any of the labors of Hercules, and as hopeless as the never-ending toil of Sisyphus. The first resolution assumes that the Nat...al Constitution is a compact between States, though the preamble to that instrument declares the contrary; and asserts "that as in other cases of compact between parties having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well as of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress." By this doctrine the States are empowered to judge whether powers attempted to be exercised by the General Government are warranted by the Constitution, and whether such attempt is an "infraction" of the "compact;" and if they decide in the affirmative, they may choose any means of redress they think proper. This makes the existence of the General Government entirely dependent upon the will of the States. A few years ago eleven States proceeded to put these principles into operation. Being authorized to choose "the mode and measure of redress," they adopted secession as a remedy, as they had a perfect right to do, if Democratic principles were correct. Thus, if those resolutions had never been penned, secession would never been attempted. Jefferson clearly repudiated them when he became President by stating in his inaugural address that "the preservation of the General Government in its whole constitutional vigor was the sheet anchor of our peace at home and safety abroad." General Jackson would not tolerate such pernicious doctrines as were expressed in those resolutions, and, in his ever memorable proclamation to the nullifiers, he trod them under his feet; but they were revived under succeeding Democratic Presidents, and brought forth the hideous birth of rebellion and civil war. Buchanan thought the seceding States were simply exercising the right "to judge as well of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress"; and accordingly he refused to take any measures to arrest the disintegration of the Union.

These doctrines are still maintained by the great mass of the Democratic party. Some of its orators try to keep them down, or to pass over them in silence; but whoever does so encounters the disapprobation of his political associates. This the Herald, to its annoyance and mortification, is made to understand. "Democracy" still rests on the Kentucky Resolutions, State supremacy, and the right of secession.

The result of the late municipal elections in San Francisco takes the city government entirely out of the hands of the "People's party" which for several years has had a controlling power in the administration of city affairs. During the ten years which have elapsed since the people rose and expelled the "roughs" who held sway in the city, San Francisco has probably been visited with fewer riots and other disturbances than any other considerable city in the United States. The Democrats will probably manage to perpetuate by fraud and violence as in old times, the power they have again acquired, until the people, no longer able to tolerate their rule, will be compelled to rise in their power and dispossess them.

The copperhead speakers and newspapers are laboring hard to prove that the men who havn't any property, and who can't earn enough to keep their families in bread, are the ones that pay all the taxes. They can make nothing at that game. Everybody knows, except that large class of Copperheads who can't read for themselves, that the Government exempts from taxation all incomes under $1,000.

Vallandigham lately delivered a speech in Maysville, Kentucky, in which he spoke of R. E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson as "noble names who will live in history as noble representative men of the nation." Val. is as good a Democrat as ever. His party brethren in this State can respond unanimously to the sentiment he uttered at Maysville.

In response to the welcome of the League he said: "I have scarcely language to express my great approbation. I only hope that I may be able hereafter to deserve approval in all my acts. Hereafter I believe it will not be said that by any act of mine treason has been made honorable. Rebellion is a crime and shall not be made honorable."

The vote in Kentucky in the late election for Governor stood as follows: For Helm, rebel Democrat, 90,225; for Kinkhead, Union Democrat, 13,167; for Barnes, Republican, 33,959. The Republican vote of Kentucky is steadidly increasing. It is now about 10,000 larger than 1864.

The contest is very close in California between the candidates for Superintendent of Public Instruction. It will forever be a mystery why the Democrats should run a candidate for that position. The fewer schools the more Democrats.

The Proprietor of the LAFAYETTE RESTAURANT takes pleasure in informing his friends and the public in general, that from this date, and during the oyster season, he will keep his establishment open at night until 2 o'clock A. M., and will serve Oysters and Suppers in every style.
PIERRE MANCIET

FROM JUDGE MARQUAM.—I have used Henley's Royal Balsam for a bad cough, and I find it a splendid medicine. I have recommended it to a great many. They speak very highly of the medicine, and I freely recommend it to the public.
P. A. MARQUAM.

The Wheat Crop.

At the close of the recent harvest there was probably a surplus of 2,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Willamette valley. Some of this, though probably no large amount, was sold before the late advance in prices. But the bulk of the wheat is still in the valley; and owing to the low stage of water in the upper river, the principal part of the crop has hardly begun to move toward the market. As the advance in prices was quite unexpected, and but little wheat had been bought up by millers and shippers, the farmers will get almost the whole benefit of the rise. The advance, it sustained, will therefore put a large amount of money in circulation in this valley, which will exercise a beneficial effect upon business for a year to come. At least $1,500,000 will be distributed throughout the valley, relieving farmers of many of their embarrassments and enabling them to engage with new vigor in the work of another year. If they can dispose of their grain at fair, remunerative rates, they will hardly let the opportunity pass to do it, as the fluctuations and uncertainties of the market are often such as to defeat all calculation. The results of the present crop—assuming that the market will be sustained till the whole surplus is disposed of,—will show what our people might do if they could rely on obtaining a steady market for the products of the soil. Agriculture alone would make this valley rich, and aided by manufactures, and with the various industries supported by a mutuality and interlacing of interests, the country would soon attain a very high degree of prosperity. If the amount of wheat which the State now has to dispose of were twenty-fold greater, we should have a better market, because buyers would know where to come to purchase. We ought to produce more of everything than we have ever yet done; and though it often appears that there is little encouragement for the farmer, all he wants is patience and industry to bring him out right at last. The markets are often dull, but it is worthy of observation that every few years farm products are in good demand. The energetic farmer who is prepared to take advantage of the markets, as all our farmers should be every year, cannot fail to make his occupation a profitable one.

WHITE WHEAT is constantly on the rise. KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91, Front street are constantly giving to purchasers of Clothing and Dry Goods all imaginable advantage, both in price and quality. WHAT A RAILROAD WOULD DO FOR US.—Yesterday morning we published an extract from a letter containing a few general hints as to the value to Oregon of direct railroad communication with the Atlantic States. The subject is one which cannot, of course, be treated at length in a newspaper article, though it is susceptible of indefinite extension. Suppose the advantages were to be considered without regard at all to the idea of connecting the commerce of the new with the old world, by way of Puget Sound and the ports of China, Japan and the East Indies; some of the results would appear to be something as follows: New York city and Portland would be within 120 hours of each other—but little more than the present distance, computing by time, between Portland and San Francisco, and less than the distance between New York and New Orleans. Every business man will readily understand how this would effect a complete revolution in the commerce between the two coasts, and how it would break down the barriers which now divide the Eastern and the Western coasts into two distinct and, in a great degree, antagonistic communities. It would stimulate into active growth the thriving settlements all along the line of the road, thus connecting by social ties what now constitutes two families. In a few years it would crowd the Indians of the plains southward and northward into regions where their depredative spirit would be comparatively harmless. The mining regions of Idaho, Montana and Utah, with their multiplied demands for our products, would be but just beyond our doors. Being also but a few hours from the great money centres of the United States, their incalculable wealth would soon be as well understood and appreciated on Wall street or wherever else capital might lie awaiting investment, as in the tunnels or mills of the claimants. In ten days' time a capitalist or his agent could start from New York, travel to Idaho or Eastern Oregon, examine a mine and arrive back at New York, ready to lay all the material facts before the public. The rapidity with which such a state of things would develop the mining regions would astonish even the most sanguine dreamer of the present hour. All our agricultural wealth would be multiplied in a corresponding ratio; not only by opening markets for us in the mining regions but by placing us in a position to reach the great Eastern markets whenever prices should warrant trade, even for a few days. It often occurs that, for a short time, prices in New York for instance, are such as to give us a good margin for profits, if we could only get our products there without too long delay. Before we can send by steamer via the Isthmus or a sailing vessel around the Horn, prices go down again. Merchants get cautious by disappointments and hence they learn to wait till a demand has all the signs of permanence before investing in shipments. Thus, it may be that half or more of the period of high prices passes before a pound of our produce is started. When rail cars shall traverse the continent, we can avail ourselves of a rise in prices within six days from its beginning. Put this against six weeks, the time now required via the Isthmus, and the advantage will readily appear. Then, the plains of Eastern Oregon are susceptible of supporting countless herds of cattle and sheep, requiring an outlay almost nominal. Put the cost of raising fat animals in a pasture already made and stocked with feed, against the cost of two to four years feeding in the States and stall-fattening for the market, and no further argument will be required to show that direct railroad communication, with all the costs of transportation granted, would open up for Eastern Oregon untold sources of wealth, in the cattle trade alone. The competition with the Atlantic States would be at least fair for Oregon stock raisers. In this connection it occurs to us to state what a resident of Portland, now at the east, writes of a single slaughter-house in the neighborhood of New York—that at Communipau. He says that the average slaughter each day is "2,000 hogs, 1,500 sheep, 600 calves and 150 to 200 beeves." This is only one of many slaughter houses required to supply New York city, alone. Give Eastern Oregon an opening into such a market, and in five years the whole of the vast region now useless, would be converted into pastures full of wealth beyond any present conception. Increased advantages of communication and trade would bring to the whole State population, what we now most need. Give us population and Oregon will soon rank in wealth and importance with the foremost States of the Union.

WE CONCUR.—The editor of the Advocate is down on dogs. Hear him for his cause: "The canines of our city are becoming alarmingly numerous. It is not an unusual occurrence for six or eight in a gang to occupy the sidewalks, compelling ladies and timid children to step aside to let them pass. During the night they prowl about the back yards of dwellings to the great annoyance of those who seek refreshment in sleep. Should hydrophobia get into this mangy herd, the lives of the people would be fearfully imperiled; and it is liable to appear any day. Now, as a dog is only a luxury and not a necessity, we suggest that the anti-dog ordinance should be rigidly enforced; and if it is not sufficiently stringent, let it be properly amended. We think that about three hundred curs of 'low degree' could well be spared." We concur in the recommendation, except as to numbers; there are not less than 1400 purps and curs which perambulate alone, or in troops of two, four, ten, twenty five or forty—tramping, barking, growling; snapping, yelping, bow-wowing and raising the Old Nick, generally. They are of all degrees from very high to very low, and of all possible descriptions. There are mastiffs and feists, Newfoundlands and terriers, hounds and curs, dogs with collars, dogs without collars and dogs not worth a leather collar tied with a tow string; there are big dogs and little dogs, great, blear-eyed slobber-chops that lie asleep on the sidewalks, and little frisky, bright-eyed fellows forever waltzing around in search of their tails; there are bluff, gruff fellows that make your calves crawl as you pass them, and the sneak that you curse for his general mean demeanor; there are black and tans and tans and blacks and blacks without the tan; there are spotted, grizzly, "yaller," brown, grey, long hairs and short hairs and some without hair. Fourteen hundred dead dogs reeking and stinking in the streets wouldn't be half the nuisance that the same number are, alive. Fourteen hundred killed would leave about fourteen hundred alive—enough in all conscience for a small city where any kind of a dog is about as useless as the fifth wheel to a wagon. By all means, turn the dog ordinance loose; appoint a dog-killer and give him a chance.

THE BALL LAST EVENING.—The ball given last evening at Oro Fino Hall, by the ladies of the Hebrew Ladies' Benevolent Society, was a very pleasant and well conducted affair as are all similar entertainments under the management of our Hebrew citizens. In a public assembly they seem to know exactly what to do, when to do it, and to have the tact for doing it right. The hall was just comfortably filled and the music—by the Aurora Band—was, perhaps, the best ever furnished a ball in this city, because the musicians are not only accomplished, but have had the advantage of long practice together. It is needless to say that the occasion was one of a very high degree of enjoyment to all participants.

HABEAS CORPUS.—On the petition of Susan A. Bennett, a writ of habeas corpus was issued last week, by Judge Deady, directing Sanford J. Bennett to appear and produce the child of the petitioner and defendant. The object of the proceeding on the part of the petitioner is to obtain the custody of the child, which she claims was given her by the decree of a court in California, awarding her a divorce from S. J. Bennett, her husband. The writ was served by Deputy Marshal Blake, on the defendant in Umpqua. Mr. Blake returned on Sunday evening with the defendant and child, and the cause will be heard before Judge Deady, at Chambers, to-day.

SECOND STREET.—The work of improving Second street is nearly completed. The plank roadway is finished from Madison to A street with the exception of a part of one block. There are several blocks to gravel yet; but that is a small job compared with the whole improvement. The grading, south, from Madison to Harrison, is completed with the exception of a part of one block. The general appearance of the street when finished, will be good. The ups and downs, at the crossings, however, are calculated to give one an impression of what life on the ocean wave is.

DULL TIMES ON LONG TOM.—A correspondent of ours from Long Tom among various things, speaks of business being dull at the chief town—Smithfield—of the Long Tom Confederacy. His report of the markets of Smithfield is a little queer. He says: "At present, the commercial circles complain of dull times. The sock trade ebbs low; pine gum is, however, steady at former prices. Not much interest taken in anything else." From which it appears that the stocks in trade are somewhat limited in the great Long Tom capital.

James Field vs. Ida Squires; continued till Wednesday, the 23d inst.

Dick vs. Hamilton, et al; continued till Wednesday.

United States vs. H. W. Davis, et al; finding by the Court; judgment against defendant for $3,038 30 and the costs of suit; judgment against R. Pentland and J. B. Stephens for $1,230 58 and costs.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the Recorder's Court, yesterday, the only case on the docket was the City vs. Ellen Williams; charge, disorderly conduct; defendant failed to appear and her bail, $20, was declared forfeited. This case has been on the docket for several days and continued from day to day. The defendant probably got off cheaper than if she had stood trial—unless she had demanded a Jury.

THE "LIVE YANKEE."—The bark Live Yankee, which was reported to have sailed from San Francisco for Portland about the 1st of this month, is now due, but as yet there is no tidings of her. Her appearance begins to be looked for with some anxiety as several of our merchants have large consignments on board of her, of articles much needed.

WHEAT.—The leading cash buyers paid $1 10 for wheat yesterday, notwithstanding the news of a shaky market at San Francisco; but they were more careful as to the quality taken. The caution observed, indicates that, should not more favorable news be received from below, the price will drop in a day or two.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Alert from Oregon City, yesterday, 370 bags wheat, 1,275 qr sks flour, 14 rolls leather, 10 bales, 12 boxes and 1 chest mdse, 5 boxes tallow, 2 bbls and 4 hf bbls produce, 60 bags oats, 53 bags feed and 100 sks middlings.

MINSTREL PERFORMANCE TO-NIGHT.—Bills are out for a performance this evening by the Congo Minstrels, at the Willamette Theater. The bill offered is an attractive one. Johnny Graham and Sprague will appear in leading characters.

CHANGE IN COMMAND.—R. A. Cardwell, Captain of the first nine of the Spartan club, resigned his position last evening, in consequence of intending soon to leave the city. Chas. Griswold was elected to fill the vacancy.

SUICIDE.—A telegram from Oregon City, of last evening, states that Harry Lambert, living about two miles from town, committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself with a pistol, in the head.

A FISH STORY.—A man named Smith is reported to have caught in the Columbia river, last week, at St. Helens, a sturgeon which was eleven feet long and weighed five hundred pounds.

The Exportation of Wheat.

The San Francisco Commercial Herald of the 10th inst., gives the following statement of the wheat export of that city for 1866 and 1867. From this statement the reader will be enabled to understand some of the causes which produced the advance in prices:

We now propose to give a comparative review of the produce trade for the first three months of the present harvest year, beginning July 1st, 1867, as compared with a like period in 1866. New York has increased her demands for our breadstuffs as follows: In 1866 she took only 797 barrels of flour during the period above stated, but since harvest this year she has taken 20,681 barrels, an increase of 19,904 barrels. Of Wheat she took 63,447 sacks last year, against 116,192 sacks the first three months of this harvest year, a difference of 52,745; reduced to Wheat at two cents the pound, the money value of her requirements for the three months ending September 30th, is $350,470, or $223,594 more than for the same period last year. The requirements of Great Britain show a still greater increase over the corresponding period of 1866. That country took $930,648 worth of our breadstuffs in the period stated, but this year she has to the value of $2,701,044 in the same time. The exhibit of our flour trade with China shows neither decline nor advance, but the exports of Wheat were much less, having fallen off three quarters. On the other hand, South America has made demands upon us for 46,882 barrels of flour and 11,040 sacks Wheat, being the commencement of our breadstuffs trade in that direction.

In addition to this statement of the causes which have affected the market on the Pacific coast, we publish the following from the New York Post of the 20th of September, as indicating some of the causes which have advanced the prices in Atlantic cities and Europe:

The late advices respecting the European crops indicate generally a deficient harvest that is scarcely up to the average of former years. It is ominous that at the commencement of the harvest prices in grain should rise in nearly all the Continental markets. In France the crops are inferior both in quality and quantity, and the Government is purchasing grain to provide against the dangers of future scarcity. To add to the misfortune, there is an almost total failure in the harvests in Algeria, which has heretofore sent large supplies of breadstuffs to France. In Spain the crops are so deficient that the Government has opened all its Mediterranean ports for free importations of grain. In Belgium and Portugal the harvests are limited, while the accounts from the great grain producing regions of Central Europe are anything but satisfactory. In England the gloomy apprehensions respecting the harvests have been partially dissipated by fine weather, and there is a prospect of a larger yield than had been anticipated. But the supply at best would fall below the average.

From these accounts it appears probable that there will be an active European demand for all the surplus produce in the Western States that can be moved to the Atlantic seaboard for some months to come. The supply in England and on the Continent was very limited, and the first fruits of the new crops were required for immediate consumption. That there will be anything like a famine or famine prices in Europe is entirely improbable. But there will be undoubtedly, a good demand for American breadstuffs at remunerative prices.

BARMAN BROS. will receive on the steamer Oriflamme, due to-day, direct from New York, a large invoice of Beaver and Cassimere Suits, Silk, Gingham and Cotton Umbrellas, and special attention is called to their Pacific Railroad Rubber Cloaks, the neatest garment ever imported to Oregon. Leopold Barman certainly appreciates the wants of Webfoot.

INSURE YOUR LIVES.—Every man should provide against the possible contingency of leaving his family destitute, at his death. By a small outlay, he can insure to his surviving wife, child, father, brother or sister, a competence. The way to do it is to have your lives insured. The safest insurance companies are those which take the most pains to state their means and mode of doing business, to the public. Such companies are generally least afraid of investigation into their ability to meet demands against them. Among this class of Life Insurance Companies is the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of New York. See their advertisement under the head of "New To-day."

FALK & KRAMER sell to-day the entire household furniture of M. O'Connor, corner Fourth and Madison St. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock A. M. See advertisement. An opportunity is given to purchase one of the best Pianos in the city.

FANCY GOODS AT WHOLESALE.—We invite special attention to the advertisement of W. Frank & Co., wholesale dealers in wood and willow ware, house furnishing articles and fancy goods generally, 406 and 408 Battery street, San Francisco. It is one of the largest establishments of the kind on the coast and offers great inducements to the trade.

FOR ASTORIA AND CEMENTVILLE.—The steamer Ranger will leave Portland on Wednesday, October 23d, for Astoria and Cementville.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels;

Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The Runaway Son

"John, give me back that book." These words spoken in a harsh tone by his father, caused John Morton to start in affright.

"Please, father, I was only—"

"No words," interrupted the father, "give me the book."

With tearful eyes and trembling hands John passed the book to his father who immediately threw it into the fire.

"Now, sir, go and finish chopping that brush and remember if you quit it again before it is all done, I'll give you a whipping."

Mr. Morton was a small farmer, who lived a few miles from the village of M—— in Massachusetts. A man of no literary taste himself, he could not endure it in others and for this reason he was an unkind and often an unjust father to wards John, his second son who loved books better than anything else in the world.

John was not a lazy boy, but as a farmer boy knows no such thing as leisure he was obliged to do his reading at such times as he could steal from his work, when his father was not by. George his elder brother, was his opposite in every respect. He was a good farmer, but a dunce at school.

"I tell you what it is, John," he would say "I wouldn't give a snap of my finger for all your book learning, but if you like it, go on, if the old man will let you, but as for me, I am bound to stick to the farm."

John had been saving his money for some time to buy a fine edition of Cooper's works complete, which an acquaintance had bought at auction in a neighboring town, and not caring much for it, had offered it to him for half price.

The night before our story commences, John had procured the long coveted treasure, and in the morning had commenced to read as soon as it was light. From this he was soon called by his father to chop a load of brush he had just brought in.

Reluctantly John left the book and went to the task, but the departure of his father for another load was too much for him; he left the brush heap and was soon absorbed in his book.

Mr. Morton had gone but a short distance when he remembered some directions he had forgotten to give George, and returned. As he neared the house he missed the sound of the hatchet. When he entered the house there sat John comfortably before the fire, completely lost in his book. It was this that made him angrily burn his book. With a bursting heart John went to the brush heap and again commenced his work. He worked steadily all day, but spoke not a word to any one. George, seeing how bad he felt about it, good naturedly said to him

"Never mind, Jack, I wouldn't care, let it go, and the next time I go to the city I'll get you another one."

"And what if you do?" replied John sadly, "he will not let me read it. I tell you, George, it's no use," he continued, "I am going away where I can have a chance to study as much as I please."

"Oh, nonsense, Jack," said George, "you will soon get over it. As for my part, I can't see what you find so interesting in books. I'd rather go into a corn field and work the hottest day in Summer than to have to get one lesson of any kind."

"I know that," said John. "It's your nature but I can't do the farm work, it isn't in me. I was never meant for it, and therefore, to-morrow morning I am going, come what may."

George tried to change his mind for some time, but finding him determined, helped him to get ready to the best of his ability, forcing him to accept all his spare pocket money, telling him he could repay it when he got rich.

"But one thing, Jack," said he, "whatever you do, be an honest man. You'll make a smarter man than ever I shall, I'm sure of it, but be honest, don't forget that. And remember, I expect to be here as long as I live. So if at any time the world goes hard with you, don't forget home."

The next morning, at breakfast, John was missed. An examination of his room showed that he had taken his little bundle of clothes, and gave evidence to his father that he had gone for good.

"Never mind," said he, "he'll soon be back."

* * * * *

Thirteen years have passed since John Morton [illegible] the old homestead, and contrary to his father's [illegible] he had not come back.

[illegible] the meantime, things had not gone on [illegible] about the farm. Farmer Morton had [illegible] up the whole charge of the farm to George [illegible] had married a girl in the neighborhood, and [illegible] now the father of five children. Years before in a case of emergency, Farmer Morton had [illegible] the farm to a small amount, and, ever [illegible] marriage of George, in spite of all his [illegible] the mortgage had been gaining ground, [illegible] the place must be sold as he could not [illegible] terms of agreement.

[illegible] a terrible blow to George and the old [illegible] there was no help for it. Their friends [illegible] neighbors were no better off than themselves, [illegible] therefore could not help them had they been [illegible] much inclined.

[illegible] was a bitter cold night in December, that [illegible] were seated around the kitchen fire. It was [illegible] their last night at home, for the next day [illegible] be the sale, and then they would be houseless. Farmer Morton sat with his head buried in [illegible] hands. At times he would raise it up and gaze upon some cherished article, as if to take the last farewell, and then bowing it again, would sob aloud.

"Come, come father," said George, "don't be [illegible] down hearted. Cheer up, cheer up. I am young yet, and if I live, and hard work will do [illegible] you shall come back to the old place yet."

"[illegible] cannot hope for it, George," returned the [illegible] man. "It will require years of successful [illegible] and I am old and cannot last long. I had [illegible] to die in the old house, but I am afraid it [illegible] not be. Sixty years I have passed here, boy [illegible] it is hard to leave now—"

[illegible] interrupted by a knock at the door, [illegible] there entered a young man [illegible] For a moment he stood [illegible] with tears in his eyes, and [illegible] and exclaiming,

[illegible] not recognize me?"

[illegible]" exclaimed George, joy[illegible] hand, and leading him towards [illegible]

"John, my son," at the same time stretching forth his arms—then suddenly drawing himself up to his full height, he said, "John, for thirteen years you have been a stranger to me; during that time we have known neither where you were, nor what you were doing, can you give me the hand of an honest man?"

"I can, sir!" replied John, proudly, and the next moment he was folded in his father's arms.

Next followed inquiries from John, as to how things had gone in his absence, and he soon learned the whole story.

"As for you," said George "I do not need to ask how the world has gone with you—that coat speaks for itself. But never mind, I have some better clothes up stairs, and you are welcome to take your pick. But what have you been doing, Jack, trying to get a living by books?"

"Yes," replied John, "I have lived entirely by books!"

"And a poor living you have had, I'll be bound," said the old man, "I never knew a book-worm yet, who ever turned out much."

"But it seems that we shall be equals to-morrow, father," said John, pleasantly.

"That's very true," answered his father, rather testily, "but had you stuck to the farm with George, this had not been!"

"Never mind, father," said John, "go to bed now, and George and I will try and make some provision for the future."

After the old man had left them, John said that he was rather fatigued, and believed that he would retire also.

"But," said George, "you have not inquired as to our future prospects. Do you not wish to know?"

"No," said John, rather shortly, "not to-night. I don't feel interested." And taking his light, with a yawn, he left the room.

George felt hurt. "After all," he thought, "he has changed. He don't seem to care what becomes of us. Never mind—poor fellow, no doubt he has seen hard times, until they have hardened even his heart."

The next morning found John Morton engaged in a noisy romp with the whole of his brother's children. Indeed, so far did he carry it, that he received a cutting reproof from his father, for his heartlessness.

"I can't help it, father," he replied, "every thing reminds me so much of childhood, that I cannot realize that I am a man."

At twelve o'clock the auctioneer appeared, in company with those who were disposed to bid for the place. Immediately upon their arrival, John took the auctioneer aside and spoke with him earnestly for a few moments. Soon after the auctioneer mounted upon the steps and said

"Gentlemen I have been requested, by the celebrated author, Morton J. Hall of Boston, to bid up this place for him as high as thirty-five hundred dollars. If any of you feel disposed to bid higher than that we will proceed otherwise, there is no need."

As no one seemed disposed to make an advance upon the bid, the place was declared sold, and soon the family was left alone again.

"Well," said the old man at dinner, "the worst is over, and I shouldn't wonder if we could hire the place of this Mr. Hall, who seems to be a city man."

"Oh, yes," said John, "I know we can. He don't care anything about farming. I know him well."

"Don't say any more," cried George jumping up and seizing both his brother's hands, "that one expression betrays you—[illegible] the farm [illegible]. John you are this Morton J. Hall!" "I have suspected it this morning, for you never was hard hearted when a boy, and you didn't act the part very well."

The old man cried for joy. "I see now John," said he. "I did not understand you, as a boy. I thought books would be your ruin, but, instead they have saved me from want."

"You are right father," said John. "I am worth to day ten thousand dollars all earned by my pen, while had I stayed by the farm, I should have been a poor—yes, poorer than I found you, for you and George are good farmers, while I could never fix my mind upon it. In fact, it is evident that I was not born a farmer."

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

It is a real pleasure to us to speak favorably of this article, known almost universally to be a good and safe remedy for burns and other pains of the body. It is valuable not only for colds in the winter, but for various summer complaints, and should be in every family. The casualty which demands it may come unawares.—Christian Advocate.

PAIN KILLER taken internally should be adulterated with milk or water, and sweetened with sugar, if desired, or made into a syrup with molasses. For a Cough and Bronchitis, a few drops on sugar, eaten will be more effective than anything else. For Sore Throat, gargle the throat with a mixture of Pain Killer and water and the relief is immediate and cure positive.

Ye Pimpled, Blotched and Ulcerated Victims of scrofulous disease, who drag your unclean persons into the company of better men take AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and purge out the foul corruption from your blood. Restore your health, and you will not only enjoy life better, but make your company more tolerable to those who must keep it.

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time, and wherever used is highly recommended, never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used, and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects. The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM, in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines, and no family can be without it after once trying it.

Read the following testimonials from some of the most [illegible] citizens of Oregon.

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR HENLEY—Dear Sir: I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my wife. She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks, which had assumed a dangerous feature for which many physicians have been trying without any material benefit, and all the remedies failed to give her any relief. Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition. The cough appeared to be worse at night, she could get no rest—when Mr Randall, of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam; all other remedies having failed, I concluded to try it, and I purchased two bottles. Strange to say, by the time I gave her three spoonfuls of the Balsam she got relief, and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous. By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked. Its effect was truly miraculous, as the cure was effectual; hence, I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted, and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit and I might say magical effect, is not more in use. My candid opinion is, if persons use it once, they never be without it in the house.

Vancouver, March 1, 1867. H. COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 15 1867

DEAR DR HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal Balsam has done for me. For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what some of the physicians called the Bronchitis and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose. Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more. And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured. I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man. I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been. Yours truly,

WILLIAM DOTY.

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public, what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children. Two of them had a very bad cough and cold, I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning and that was all that was needed to cure them. I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was. I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house, in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy, as it acts like magic on children. What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician. I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now. I shall always recommend it to all my friends, for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind.

Yours truly, SOPHIA M HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business, and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale. But Dr Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all. In fact, we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other. During our experience, we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases, when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had. I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma. We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction.

BELL & PARKER

Druggists, Oregon City

From W. F. Barbor.

DR HENLEY—Dear Sir: I had the Asthma for the last four years so bad that it came near choking me. I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam which on several of [illegible] with the same disease has performed wonders. I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since and I really believe that I am perfectly cured, anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease.

I am Yours truly

W F BARBER

From J. H. Morril.

DEAR DR HENLEY—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public, for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines at [illegible] I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine. I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years. I coughed and wheezed for an hour at a time. I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and on this coast all to no purpose. I [illegible] got no relief and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world. I was induced to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me, and [illegible] I had used up four bottles, the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody. My wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it. My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it, I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam and I conscientiously recommend it to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial.

I remain yours, truly

SPRAINED WRIST CURED

Portland August 10 1867

I was at Mr. Wright's store, Saturday August 10th, and seeing the magic effect of J. G. RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT in his case concluded to try it on my wrist which has been sprained for some time. I found relief inside of FIVE MINUTES from its application and it is now perfectly well. My wrist was so swelled I could not shut my fingers. I believe it will cure any pain in a short time. I will give any further particulars to who ever calls on me.

Tumor Removed!

Portland August 10th 1867

I HAVE USED RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT for pain and swelling of the gum and cheek. I had a large tumor forming on the gum which arose from killing the nerve in my tooth and caused me a dreadful pain which prevented me from sleep for several nights. I applied the Liniment and to my surprise it removed the lump and cured the pain so that it is now as well as the other cheek. My cheek was fearfully swollen. This was done in the presence of two witnesses.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, foted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania, and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing diseases incident to females, treated with eminent success. Such as Suppressions, Irregularities, Whites, Falling of the Womb, Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation, Barrenness, etc., will be speedily cured, without poisonous drugs, injuries or unpalatable medicines of any kind. Have no delicacy in calling, no difference what your troubles may be. The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves.

Persons calling at Dr Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his assurances of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and expect no more than to be charged with a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Address DR J F GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

DR. HENLEY'S

Fountain of Life!

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARRIVE when a new direction is imparted to its course. These epochs proceed from discovery of new facts shedding a light which changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind and this Great Remedy, now offered to the public in connection with the theory on which it is based is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood. The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts; it contains no Mercury or other mineral substance.

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything, from the days of Æsculapius down to the present time in the arcana of Medical Science which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier. Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world. No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. Thousands have been swept into their graves who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health. It requires an article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself. During the stern ordeal of public experience the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test trial and not been found wanting.

Dr HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world and eradicate the disease entirely from the system, or no charge made—provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured.

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to T. L. Peck of Portland Oregon and numbers of others, as to what a miraculous effect it had in a short time in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years.
